Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 09 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rain clearing this evening then sunshine and showers on Friday.

This Evening and Tonight:
A rather wet evening in most places, but the rain clearing away eastwards overnight. Clear spells following but a few showers arriving on fairly brisk north-westerly winds. Feeling cold with a touch of frost in some sheltered spots. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Friday:
Sunny spells and scattered showers for most, these heaviest and most frequent in northern and western parts of the region, and wintry over the hills at first. A cold breeze. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Cold at first on Saturday, but turning mild and cloudy with rain spreading east. Patchy rain on Sunday and turning windy later, with heavier rain possible on Monday. Staying mild.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.